Put faithfulness and trust first, and follow the right; the mind will be raised. We wish life to what we love and death to what we hate.

– Confucius