

Many public-school children seem to know only two dates—1492 and the 4th of July; and as a rule they don't know what happened on either occasion.

- Mark Twain