Tommy Purr's Hamper

At the school today there was quite a stir.

A hamper had come for young Tommy Purr.

There were nuts and apples all rosy red,

Oranges nearly as big as a head;

With almonds and raisins, and sugar and spice,

A pie that was filled with the most tender mice,

And cakes all covered with candied peels,

And a mouse to play with that ran on wheels.

From far and near the kittens did scamper,

And shouted hurrah for Tommy Purr's hamper.
